CARNIVAL CORPORATION

UK AND EUROPEAN MERGER REVIEW

The European Commission today announced its decision to open a Phase II enquiry into the proposed combination of Carnival Corporation (NYSE: CCL - NEWS) and P&O Princess under the European Merger Regulation. This review will take a maximum of 4 months and an outcome is expected by early August 2002, approximately the same time that Carnival expects the FTC reviews of the Carnival/P&O Princess and Royal Caribbean/P&O Princess combinations to be complete. Both Carnival's offer and the Royal Caribbean Proposal are undergoing simultaneous antitrust review in the US by the FTC.

The European Commission also today denied the request, made by the UK Department of Trade and Industry on March 18, 2002, to refer the UK elements of the Carnival/P&O Princess combination to the UK competition authority for review.

The overwhelming vote for adjournment at the P&O Princess EGM on February 14, 2002 indicated clearly that P&O Princess Shareholders wish to compare the two transactions on equal terms once the outcome of the regulatory processes are known.

Carnival remains fully committed to completing its combination with P&O Princess and will continue to co-operate fully with the European Commission and the FTC with a view to securing a successful outcome.
